There will be non-com mittals-who, in most cases, if elected, will prove antagonistic-and there will be party declarations, and depunciations of the opposition, and determined efforts in many states and congressional conventions for and Against resolutions on the subject.

The agitation will contribute an important chapter to our political history and the likelihood is that the measure will finally be ratified.

The dahlia pests increase from year to year and the worst is the little white fly that makes the leaves curl and turn yellow, and the insect which affects the flower buds and makes distorted blooms. The neatest way of checking both is to spray the buds and foligate with the bitter tea made from quassia chips. The stalk borer is not so bad. He turns up only occasionally, and once when he bored a stalk for me I cut it off and got more flowers from the invigorated laterals than ever before from the same roots. The grasshopper plague is annoying for these insects take a fancy to the choicest blooms and eat off the petals so that the symmetry of the flower is destroyed. SUNDAY MORNING TALK

"FOND OF HIS FOLKS."

"He's fond of his folks," said a man one of several comments passed. What the others were I have forgotten. The thing that sticks in my mind is the fact that this particular person likes his own people. That single element in his makeup predisposes me in his favor. When I meet him I shall expect to find a certain kind of man. He may be defective in other particulars, open to criticism, because of this or that peculiarity, but he cannot be wholly bad, and my heart warms up to him in advance because he is said to possess that quality of loyalty to his friends and his family.

Yet when characterizing a man, why hould you mention this trait as if it were exceptional, as if only now and then a man or woman were found of whom it is true? Pray, of whom should we be fond, if not of our own kith and kin? Who has done more for us than they? Who has borne with us mon
